BIOGRAPHY

Paul Martyn is General Manager, Economic Policy and Planning in the Department of Employment, Economic Development and Innovation.

Paul was a practising criminal defence lawyer, before joining the Queensland Government to work on competition law issues. Over the past decade, he has worked on a series of major reform agendas. Paul was the Government's main policy adviser on the deregulation of the sugar and dairy industries, and is a specialist in economic policy, regulatory reform and governance issues.

Paul is leading the development of the Queensland Government's response to the impacts of the Carbon Pollution Reduction Scheme on small to medium enterprise and on regions. He also is responsible for design and delivery of services to business and industry across the State.

Paul has a Masters in Public Policy from the University of London and Honours degrees in Law and Government. He is a Councillor of the Institute of Public Administration Australia.
